The Father's Heart.

1. When you think of your relationship with your father, how did you approach him as a child? How did he respond to your approaching him? Did he notice your needs and have an interest in meeting them? Was he available to you when you wanted to share your heart? Did he give encouragement and support?

2. Apply these same questions in regard to the relationship you had with your mom.

3. Are there any similarities between the way your parents responded to you, met your needs, or were available to you and the way that you perceive God responding to you, meeting your needs or being available to you?

As we leave childhood we project onto God the ways of our parents (our parents have had 'god-like' powers when we were children). Separate any unloving or unhelpful responses of your parents towards you from the nature of God. They were not God. Forgive them for their brokenness, or child rearing practices of the day. Give them to the Lord for Him to hold. Ask for forgiveness where you have unknowingly projected your parents' nature onto God. Go through some of your favorite Bible verses on the love and commitment of God the Father for you. Receive these truths into your heart.

God wants intimacy with you.
